The Jags had earlier led 2-1 thanks to goals from Laura Williamson and Karen Howarth. And substitute Lauren Killackey equalised, before Elena Rodriguez fired in an equaliser in the final minute. Aberdeen Ladies won promotion from the Scottish Women's Premier League to the Scottish Women's Premier League - the top division in Scotland - for the first time in their history. They finished second behind Hamilton Academical in the 2017-18 season, missing out on the title by two points. Accies, who were second in the SWPL after an unbeaten campaign, lost 1-0 at home to Edinburgh City Ladies on Saturday. Aberdeen Ladies' defence of the title had come under fire earlier this season with a 4-1 defeat by Glasgow City. That defeat in Glasgow proved costly for the Jags, as Hamilton climbed up to second place in the table. But a good start at home proved to be the difference between the sides. The visitors' first chance of the game was scrambled away by goalkeeper Laura Summerhayes. The Jags soon took the lead through Williamson. She fired in from close range after 20 minutes, with the ball appearing to strike an arm of the Hibs goalkeeper before going in. Then, 15 minutes later, Hibernian striker Howarth rattled the crossbar with a 20-yard shot, before her strike hit the post and bounced over the line. But the visitors soon levelled things up with a well-worked goal. It started with a clever through ball which
