Q: How can I use a custom interpolation function in P5.js? I'm using P5.js. P5.js uses the built-in power function to interpolate new values between the end points of a line. However, my line does not have a clear end point and the power function does not work. So I tried to write my own custom interpolation function. I have written the following code: function interpolate(a,b) { return Math.pow(a,2)+Math.pow(b,2)-2*Math.pow(a,2)*Math.pow(b,2); } If I call the function in the code, the end points of the line are the same values. What am I doing wrong? You are taking the square root of the vector between endpoints (a and b). If you want to use interpolation between a and b, you should apply it to the vector between a and b. Here is an example: var b = 0; function setup() { createCanvas(400, 400); background(255); function draw() { var a = height/2; var b = width/2; var x = interpolate(a,b); strokeWeight
