IMPELCO&TSM is well-known as a leader in the market of PC memory such as RAM. It provides all sorts of memory products, we can help you make a smart choice.

1. Field of the Invention This invention relates to capacitors and, more particularly, to tantalum capacitors having barrier metal layers, such as those employed in integrated circuits.

2. Description of the Related Art Various layers of barrier materials, such as titanium nitride (TiN), are often employed in integrated circuits as conductive barriers between metal layers in such circuits. For example, such a layer may act as a barrier between a copper (Cu) layer and a surrounding TiN layer that contacts an underlying diffusion barrier. Barrier materials are typically deposited by sputter deposition. However, such a deposition process may not be appropriate for depositing some barrier materials, particularly those barrier materials having a high aspect ratio, i.e., a high ratio of depth to width. In some barrier applications, a deposition process, such as sputter deposition, may not be suitable because the deposition process may result in a barrier layer that is not continuous or may not be conformal to the underlying surface. For example, in a capacitor application, a high aspect ratio hole may be necessary in a conformal barrier layer to reach the underlying diffusion barrier. As a result, the underlying diffusion barrier may be exposed and unable to act as a barrier between the capacitor electrode and the surrounding dielectric layer. For example, U.S. Pat. No. 6,528,078 to Brodsky et al. discloses a method for forming an integrated circuit capacitor that includes depositing a dielectric layer, forming a bottom electrode, depositing a barrier layer, forming a top electrode, and planarizing the top electrode to form the capacitor. U.S. Pat. No. 6,117,388 to Hashimoto et al. discloses a method for forming a stacked capacitor that includes forming a dielectric layer, forming a bottom electrode, depositing a barrier layer, forming a top electrode, and depositing another dielectric layer. U.S. Pat. No. 6,297,217 to S. McCormick discloses a method for forming a capacitor that includes depositing a dielectric layer, forming a bottom electrode, depositing a barrier layer, forming a top electrode, and depositing another dielectric layer. U.S. Pat. No. 5,
