The NanoTube is a download site - you don't need to be a member to view videos. You can browse the "Videos" or "Sites" tabs. Videos are broken into categories and sub-categories by site. The videos on the site are split into two main categories - "Blogs" and "Videos". Each video is listed under its appropriate category, and as with most websites these videos are broken into shorter sections. To play a video, hover the mouse over the embedded videos on each blog page. Or just click the related links below.

When you've finished viewing a video, you can click the "Share" button at the bottom of the gadget window to download the video or to share via the social media sites. When a video is finished downloading, you can delete the gadget, or play it from the desktop window by right-clicking on the gadget. Each video is linked back to its original video on the NanoTube site.
