In this post I'll show you how to learn a programming language using Scratch, one of the many tools that makes up the Dash project. I'll show you the basics of how to install Scratch and even how to make your own Scratch project. Scratch is a programming language that doesn't require knowledge of any coding language, so it can be a good learning language for people with little to no programming knowledge. Scratch is actually a visual programming language and a framework that allows you to make games and interactive projects for the web or even be used as a basis for computer game programming. You don't need to know a programming language to use Scratch, but if you do know a programming language or want to use it you can also use Scratch to program in C, Python, JavaScript, Ruby and other coding languages. For this tutorial we will be using Scratch 2.0, but Scratch can be found on the Scratch website and also on GitHub. You can find it under the category 'online' or 'web' in the 'scratch' tab. Creating a Scratch project So what are the first steps to learn programming? Make sure that you've installed the program You'll start by making sure that you've installed the Scratch 2.0 software (or Scratch). There are a couple of ways to do this. You can find the installation instructions on the Scratch website. Go to and download the version of Scratch that is compatible with your operating system. For example on Mac and Windows you should download Scratch 2.0.1. Once you've downloaded Scratch, simply double click on the downloaded file to open the installer. You can also find the Scratch application on your computer's program menu or Start Menu. Now that you have Scratch installed, you'll have to create a new project, which is the starting point for creating your own Scratch games, animations or even fun projects. Go to the ‘create’ tab on the Scratch home screen, and choose ‘new project’. You can also find it in the Scratch program menu, as well as in the ‘web’ tab. If you’re using Scratch on a Mac, you can also access the ‘New Project’

This is a programmer macro recorder that let you record keyboard keys as well as mouse clicks. After recording is complete you can search for specific keywords in the macro. You can see the macros as you type. If the macro is completed you can playback the macros. Keymacro also record macros automatically while you are typing. Keyboard usage: Record and playback macros, record video, capture images, record/play audio or record a multitrack audio track, change audio tracks, copy and paste text, record and playback contacts. Note: It is recommended to have both Front USB and Back USB in the same computer. Easy to use macro recorder including high definition recording. The app uses macros to speed up repetitive tasks. For example, you can record a macro that copies the selected text to the clipboard. You can also record or replay an entire web page. The macros can be defined using specific hotkeys, while all the video and audio captures can be recorded. You can also record a whole video of your desktop or just record the area with the mouse cursor. If you are using a MultiTrack audio clip you can highlight several tracks at the same time and record them as a multi-track recording. Keyboard usage: When you record a macro, you define a sequence of keys or a mouse click. This can be anything, and can include anything you want. For example, you can define a sequence of mouse clicks or keystrokes that you can use later in the program or another program. Some programs allow you to record mouse clicks with a button on the mouse. Other programs allow you to define keystrokes. You can also record text from anywhere on your screen. You can then replay that text or any parts of it at a later time. For example, you can record what you are typing right now and you can replay that text later when you need it. When you are ready to record your macro, you first select the mouse mode, the program or the part of the program to be recorded. After recording is complete you can see a bar on the bottom of the screen that lets you replay a recording or review it. You can also edit the recorded clip to make it more understandable. You can also get help on how to use the program or any of its features.
