Water is Life Think the sea is just one big toilet? You may have read our article about how to take a pee in the ocean. But have you ever thought about what the ocean is like from the inside? Many people might assume that the ocean is just one big toilet. But the reality is a little different. The first thing to know is that the ocean is not a toilet bowl. This term only refers to the shallow waters close to coastlines. If you want to see the ocean in its true light, you have to go much deeper. Once you go that deep, you are swimming in water that is mostly fresh, not polluted.

We are using AppRx (a NuGet package to version and sign the project's output) along with GitHub actions, but we have found a new issue when we were upgrading to AppRx V3.0.1. The problem is that in the release stage (after the build pipeline execution) we get an AppRxEception when running dotnet of package "S(Build.ArtifactStagingDirectory)" -c Release. The exception is: InvalidOperationException: Could not find a part of the path 'C:\a\1\1\WebApp\bin\Release\et462\publish'. [C:\a\1\1\WebApp\get-packages\apprx-sdk-v3\tools\AppRx.RunTime.dll] For some reason though, this exception doesn't seem to be a problem for the CI pipeline execution (the build step succeed and runs the vstest.console.exe task successfully). My question is: Is it possible to avoid the AppRxEception and continue with the release stage? A: 1
