Integration The closest AutoCAD feature to the Autodesk Exchange is the integration into the MyPlanner workspace.

MyPlanner is an application from Autodesk, launched in 2007, that enables users to find out how an item affects other items in their project. A table in MyPlanner displays the parameters of a specific part, such as its weight, length, or volume. The user can then view the parts in their 3D model and change any of the parameters to change the effects. The MyPlanner workspace supports additional components, such as the MySync component that enables the two-way synchronization between MyPlanner and an AutoCAD drawing. It provides drag-and-drop for the manipulation of the AutoCAD parts. The collaboration function enables multiple users to work on a drawing and communicate with each other through MyPlanner. Communication includes the ability to exchange text, images, and models. A major feature is the ability to send parts and shapes to the other users. It enables multi-user editing, where a number of users can work on the same drawing simultaneously and add annotations. Integration of MyPlanner into AutoCAD 2016 was released in January 2018. In 2018, there was a new version of MyPlanner called MyPlanner 2.0 which was released on June 14, 2018. This new version of MyPlanner allows you to import a part from an AutoCAD drawing and add it to the MyPlanner canvas as well as create a new drawing from the MyPlanner canvas. The AutoCAD API has been enhanced to support MyPlanner's many new features.

One of them is the ability to make your design changes on a mobile device via text-based comments. MyPlanner will then sync the changes back to your computer or AutoCAD drawing. Application development AutoCAD's developer platform is the AutoLISP programming language. The ObjectARX library provides a C++ class API, supporting the OLE Automation Framework. AutoLISP is a stack-based, interpreted Lisp-like programming language that is used to create macros and add-ons, and perform other tasks. The developer's toolbox consists of a large library of functions for everything from managing shapes, lines, and text, to extracting data from a drawing or from a web page, to generating forms. Additionally, the API offers services for managing files, objects, animations, and text. 5b5f913d15
