Significance of "Exclusive Cholesterol Syndrome" in the Detection of Small-Sized Intracerebral Arteriovenous Malformations in Headache Patients. To clarify the significance of "exclusive cholesterol syndrome" (ECS) in the detection of small-sized (≤ 3 mm) intracerebral arteriovenous malformations (AVMs) in patients with chronic headache. We studied 91 patients who were diagnosed with intracerebral AVMs between July 2015 and December 2016. The number of patients with the ECS according to the location of the AVM was compared with those who did not have the ECS. Among the 91 patients, 8 (8.8%) were diagnosed as having the ECS. The AVMs in all of these patients were located in the deep white matter (3 in the superior corona radi 77a5ca646e
