What's New In Fake Desktop?

This is a set of fake Windows XP / Windows Vista desktop icons to be used with Windows 98 / ME / 2000. The desktop is designed for educational usage, and for fun. Basically, the desktop was designed to replace the real desktop with something that resembles the windows 98/2000 desktop. It can be used for more than just a fake desktop. It works well to put your desired icons on the desktop, and then click the button to make the desktop look like it's still windows 98/2000, and that's when the real desktop appears. The icons are customizable. Every icon can be dragged to any spot on the desktop, and then replace the real desktop with the selected icon. This means that you can have icons on the desktop from any program, like notepad, word, paint, etc. And, if you need a clean desktop again, you can just click on the button again, to make the desktop look like it was created again. With the selection of your desired icons, you can create a personalized desktop by choosing images from your own computer. The desktop includes many icons, so you can decide which ones you want. Each desktop can be shared with others, or not. I use this application to change the desktop to different images or video at different times. It was designed to be used while working on computers with no windows, and as a fun alternative to installing windows on a computer. Windows 98/2000 Desktop Project This is a project I've been working on to have a different desktop for Windows 98 and Windows 2000. If I've managed to get the software working, you will see the test of the entire desktop. The dll has been tested on Windows 2000 and Windows XP. If you wish to test it on Windows ME, XP or Vista, you must have Windows 98 or Windows 2000, but I have no idea about Win ME support. If you do not want to test it on your own system, I would be happy if you used it. The difference between this and the previous version is that the clock and start menu are on the left hand side, whereas the folders and desktop icons are still on the right hand side. All the folders can be dragged and dropped on the desktop. If you have several desktops or positions and don't want to waste space, you can drag the folders to the areas you wish. The program will also create icons from the folders, so you can create a virtual desktop of your
