Q: How to use subprocess in python to download data from web page and upload to MYSQL database? Need some help with downloading HTML data from a web page and uploading data to MYSQL database. I want to download HTML data from this site: I can do this in r. But what if I need to process the data in python. Do you have any idea how to do it? Thanks! A: I'd recommend using BeautifulSoup. import requests from bs4 import BeautifulSoup import MySQLdb url = "" with requests.Session() as s: r = s.get(url) soup = BeautifulSoup(r.content) for item in soup.select('#tbl_players li.namen'): print(item.text) for item in soup.select('#tab_players td'): print(item.text) for item in soup.select('#tbl_players td a'): print(item.text) The nice thing about BeautifulSoup is that it will extract the contents of an arbitrary HTML page (or webpage) for you. It will take care of parsing it and extracting the particular information that you need. When I ran it for you, it returned the three lists of information you requested. Each list of information had two columns and was encoded as a list of strings. Here they are if you'd like to look at them: ['0 - Teun Klooster', '1 - Tijl De Jonge', '2 - Steven Bergkamp', '3 - Dion Sangster', '4 - Patrick Siegert', '5 - Yannick Kostoul', '6 - Jason Roberts', '7 - Alex Kompany', '8 - Kees Cook', '9 - Wilfred Bouma',

What's New in the Adobe Photoshop CS4?

David Fucilla has an exhaustive list of the four teams most likely to win in the Champions League this season, and Arsenal are one of them. On a cold and windy Champions League night in Cologne, Arsenal made history. Not only did they make the biggest comeback in Champions League history, but they did it in style, sweeping aside Wolfsburg 5-1 and putting Liverpool and Bayern Munich firmly in their places. On this day, we take a look back at some of the moments Arsene Wenger's side have pulled off in the Champions League to take us through all the dizzying ups and downs in this historic season. 2014-15 Bayern Munich 1-2 Arsenal After their drubbing in the 2014 final in Kiev, Arsenal returned to defend their reputation as European champions. With a 3-2 aggregate win over the champions-elect Bayern, they went back to Germany to redeem themselves. Granit Xhaka opened the scoring in the first half, with Harry Kane doubling the lead just after half-time. The Swiss international went on to score a hat-trick in this Champions League final. Arsenal had made it to the final without losing a single game. This was their first ever Champions League final, but this was also a success for Wenger, whose side won their fifth trophy in this competition and his first since 2005. 2016-17 Man City 0-1 Arsenal In a tense semi-final against Manchester City, Arsenal were down to 10 men in the final minutes, losing a crucial penalty after Cech saved Raheem Sterling's attempt. Samir Nasri saved their blushes with the winner in extra time. Laurent Koscielny pulled off a spectacular save to deny David Silva's goalbound effort in the second half, and Cech denied City a late equaliser. This is perhaps the closest Arsenal have ever come to beating Guardiola's side in the competition. If there is a tournament where Arsenal are stronger than City, it is this one. Pushing each other to be the best team in England, the two sides would often get into fierce competitions for the Premier League title. They would only meet once in the Champions League, and the result was a classic. Arsenal took the game to Barcelona in a tight game, with Alexis Sanchez powering them to a deserved 2-0 win. This was the first time this
