The purpose of this book is to assist readers who have little experience with photography in editing their images. By achieving this, they can learn to edit and create images all by themselves, without the need for hours of Photoshop training. This is the first part of a series of several books that each cover a different element of photography and Photoshop. It covers Adobe Photoshop Elements and how you can use it to edit, enhance, crop, color correct, and create the perfect photo. The second part of this series covers Adobe Photoshop 2019 and how to use it to modify, enhance, crop, color correct, and create the perfect photo. Ways of Publishing Your Book If you publish your own book using these techniques, you can publish your book with a traditional publisher, using traditional methods. It is a real book with a real cover.

You can even get a traditional binding if you want. You can get your book printed in a bookshop near you. Do you want to self-publish your book? Are you using books as digital downloads instead What's New in the?

The serendipitous discovery of a leafy chemotype in the genus Swertia (Swertiaceae), one of the most important traditional Chinese medicines. Phytochemical investigations of the leaves of Swertia chirata G.Y. Yang et C.H. Wu (Swertiaceae) led to the isolation of the novel polyoxygenated glycosides swertiloside A (1) and swertiloside D (2). The structure of the new compounds was assigned by extensive spectroscopic analyses including a single-crystal X-ray diffraction experiment. The absolute configuration of 1 was established by X-ray crystallography of its derivatives, esterification reactions and NMR analyses of a series of synthetic compounds. The known compounds swerticoside B (3), swerticoside C (4), swerticoside D

(5) and vallesetin (6) were also isolated and their structures determined by spectroscopic methods. Neuropathic Pain and Quality of Life in Peripheral Nerve Injury Patients: Preliminary Findings. Chronic pain affects the quality of life of many patients. Neuropathic pain is a debilitating and challenging condition. The purpose of this study was to evaluate the level of anxiety, depression, and pain intensity and quality of life in patients with peripheral nerve injury. The study included 64 patients with peripheral nerve injury, who were hospitalized in the neurosurgery clinic of a large hospital in Turkey. They were between 21 and 60 years of age and underwent rehabilitation at least 6 months prior to the study. The neurologic evaluation used in the study consisted of a detailed medical history, physical and neurological examination, and electrophysiologic studies. Self-rating depression, pain intensity, and anxiety were assessed with the Beck Depression Inventory, the visual analog scale, and the State-Trait Anxiety Inventory for Adults, respectively. Patients who had at least 1 year of follow-up of rehabilitation were also asked about the degree of satisfaction for the hospitalization. Sixty-four patients with peripheral nerve injury were included in the study. Of the patients, 62.5% were men, and the mean age was 50.7 ± 12.4 years. The characteristics of patients who had complete follow-up after rehabilitation in the hospital included male patients (70.8%), right-handed patients (51.8%), and patients with neuropathy on the right side (74.3%). The location of the
