Thursday, February 23, 2013 Nini is a treasure. You can see the bump hanging out from her dress (I knew she was pregnant before she told me). We are adding family to our family, in the best way. Last weekend we found out our next door neighbor is expecting a baby. A great big brother or sister for my boys. We went over to see the baby and got to meet the mom and dad. My husband and I knew this would be a girl based on the shape of her belly. We went to the baby shower today. It was a fun afternoon of DIY decorating, impromptu games of Hungry Hungry Hippos, and hearty snacks. Most of my gifts (mostly handmade) are baby related. There was a framed crochet baby blanket. A handmade burp cloth that hangs around the neck. Stuffed animals in all shapes and sizes. A neck warmer. A very special blanket in colors and patterns for the nursery. A cradle. Babies are fun to watch. We got to meet and spend some time with them today. This was a surprise that they wanted to share with us. It was so sweet. And we felt more loved than usual. I decorated some water bottles. I made a mix of fabric and felt. I got some candles, some magnets, and some gift bags. Rummaging around my craft room, I found a neat little project I had planned to do. I planned to make my husband a coat for work. So I got out the pattern and fabric and made a sample... This is what I came up with. It's all handmade, assembled and sew by hand. I won't lie, I was a little scared at first to do it by myself. But I just love the end result. (It hangs over my bed. Which is usually not my favorite spot.) Tuesday, February 21, 2013 This is just a little treat for myself. I've been loving to create a little something with a lot of personality for my family. This has been a while in the making. But it's done. My kids love it. My husband loves it. I love it. And the extra details put it over the top. (I know I've said this before, but I also love how it turned out...with everything, right down to the ribbons on top of my husband's coffee cup.) So I
