Using proprietary software (www.gamer.co.uk), the Artificial Intelligence (AI) engine is able to analyse and create a sophisticated model of each player that is accurate down to a single pixel of movement. A whole array of new game content is created with the help of the most detailed player model in the history of football. The new game features are: Unprecedented Player Behaviour - Players interact realistically with each other, dynamically responding to what's going on around them in the game. They react to being challenged by opponents, defenders and goalkeepers. Intuitive Passing and Shooting Control - Players can pre-select a specific player or player type to pass the ball to. They can even pre-select a specific pass option depending on the situation. When shooting, players can choose which foot to shoot with. Attacking players can shoot on the run or after they've slowed down. Unrivalled Player Creation - Players can create team-mates, train, and recruit players from the entire game world as well as the current player pool in the player editor. From the legendary Lionel Messi to classic players such as Andrea Pirlo and Cafu, the game is packed with memorable, diverse and accurate player models. Petr Cech and Eric Dier v. Gabriel Jesus v. Kylian Mbappé AI is also being used in these areas: Off the Ball – Players can intercept the ball and make their own play. Defensive and attacking players are under pressure to make the right play at the right time. Defensive Tactics – Defenders can take full control of the game by managing their opponent’s movements and key passes. They can also line up in a defensive block when required to allow the goalkeeper to manage challenges. Style of Play Analysis – The game can help players to improve their tactical understanding. Players can immediately see what each player’s style of play is and how it impacts the game. FIFA’s Lead Gameplay Engineer, Louis Reneau, said: “I’m excited about the new player model in FIFA because it brings a level of realism and depth to the game experience that players have never had before.
