The list of taxes is for family of six: Total Taxes: $73.50 Total taxes for six people: $736.00 Tax to Tax Ratio: 1.8 to 1 Take the total amount you paid in taxes ($736) and divide it by the total income you earned ($2,500). Then multiply that number by 1.8 to get the tax to income ratio. The result is 1.8; taxes make up only 1.8 percent of your income. The Tax to Income ratio is one of the most important concepts in personal finance. It's one of the first things people look at when determining their tax rate and, if they're paying too much in taxes, look to lower their tax to income ratio. All tax rates are expressed in percentages, but of course, the percentage is not a good tax rate unless you're a low income earner. If you're earning a million dollars a year, your tax to income ratio would be 4 percent. If you are earning a million a year and paying 25 percent in taxes, you get a tax to income ratio of 1. In the graphs above, look at the bottom graph. The lower the tax to income ratio, the better off you are. For example

EA SPORTS FIFA is an award-winning franchise of football games which has earned a reputation for being a deep, fast, authentic and tactically-acclaimed sports title. The trademark FIFA gameplay has traditionally relied on both real world challenges (e.g. strength of opponent, weather and altitude) as well as artificial intelligence and reaction on the pitch. Why should we play FIFA? The fact that FIFA is EA SPORTS and every player in every stadium has a unique likeness and movement style means no two games are ever the same - you won't find any clones and you'll never experience something that isn't authentic. The signature move of the ball when it's in motion is unlike any other sports game and the fluidity and skill that is required to control the ball make FIFA one of the most challenging games in the genre. FIFA 16's all-new broadcast features will provide you with coverage every step of the way, allowing you to experience World Cup™ like never before and make all the talking points. FIFA Ultimate Team is always looking to improve and with FIFA 16, come into Season Ticket we have some exciting new features to try, including rewards and rewards tab.
