Q: listbox not displaying data from file I'm trying to get the data from a txt file, and display it in a listbox. Using the C# I did this, FileStream fs = File.OpenFile, FileMode.Open, FileAccess.Read); StreamReader sr = new StreamReader(fs); string line; while ((line = sr.ReadLine()) != null) { listbox1.Items.Add(line); } But, it does not display the data. I tried to do the same thing with the following code, FileStream fs = File.OpenFile, FileMode.Open, FileAccess.Read); StreamReader sr = new StreamReader(fs); string line; while ((line = sr.ReadLine()) != null) { listbox1.Items.Add(line); } And string[] splitted = line.Split(" "); foreach (string s in splitted) listbox1.Items.Add(s); And listbox1.Items.AddRange(File.ReadLines(file).Select(line => line.Split(" ").Select(s => s.Trim()).ToArray())); And again listbox1.Items.AddRange(File.ReadLines(file).Select

The present invention relates to a process and apparatus for the manufacture of microelectronic device members having a device side made of a polymeric material with a device side adhesive layer for adhering the device side to a substrate. For years, the electronics industry has been producing three-dimensional integrated circuits using molding techniques. See, for example, U.S. Pat. No. 4,765,768, issued Aug. 23, 1988 in the name of Wilson, and U.S. Pat. No. 4,932,846, issued Jun. 12, 1990 in the names of Yamada and Heller. Typically, a substrate, such as a silicon substrate, is provided with a planar substrate adhesive. The substrate adhesive generally has the same function as a photoresist used in other applications; namely, to temporarily adhere the substrate to a base while exposing areas of the substrate to the action of a photochemical etchant. After the etchant is removed, it is then possible to remove the remaining areas of the substrate by known methods, such as chemical etching or plasma etching. The planar substrate adhesive is generally hydrophobic in nature. Thus, the adhesive tends to resist the penetration of water into and out of the substrate. The surface of the substrate, which defines the location and formation of the devices, is generally protected from the action of the etchant, by a conformal film such as, for example, a polyimide film, which is referred to as an "anti-etch" film. The conformal film is placed on the substrate surface and the anti-etch film is protected with an anti-etch coat, which is also referred to as an "anti-etch" coat. In the molding process, a dielectric material, or material, or mixture of materials that is formed into a molding compound, such as, for example, a polyimide, is placed on the substrate surface and a heated surface or surface, or d0c515b9f4
