1. 1. Go to Tools → Clone Stamp, as shown in the following illustration. Click on the picture of the Clone Stamp tool and you will see a few drop-down lists containing brushes. Click on the category you would like to select a brush from. There are some very common brushes, such as Film Noire, Neon, and Photo Effects. Figure 9.5 A simple marquee tool . There are numerous marquee tools, but the simple one is the best for most tasks. In this example, a simple marquee has been used to select an area. Figure 9.6 Some of the specific tools you will see in your drop-down list are: * Bordered (B) selection tool This is used for selecting a rectangular area. * Magic Wand (W) This tool selects all the available pixels in an area. This is great for when you need to select a specific area of a picture. * Pencil (C) This tool allows you to draw lines and freehand shapes. Draw the shape of what you want to select. The shape will appear in the active palette. To select the shape, click and drag to select it. As you drag, the shape will appear and then disappear when you let go. When you select a shape, a point will appear where you clicked and another point will appear at the end of the line segment you drew. The shape will change size when you click on the second point. You can drag the second point or press the right mouse button to move this new point. The next tool you will see is Freeform () . Click on the tool and then click the picture to select a freeform shape. Freeform will then create an outline of the shape you selected. After you select the freeform shape, you can use the same methods to move points around. Click and drag to create a shape with the same characteristics as the freeform shape. Figure 9.7 A magnifying glass . With this tool, you can see the selected area at a higher magnification than you would normally see. Click on the tool to select a target area. You can move the crosshair around the picture. Once you click on a target area you can select another area by clicking with the crosshair within that box. * Lasso You can use this tool to select a rectangular area
