Photoshop, being a cloud based, platform-independent and cross-platform multi-tasking tool, can be downloaded from the Adobe website and can be installed on Mac, Windows, Linux, and Android platforms with some flexibility in the versions available (from Photoshop CS to Photoshop CC). Adobe Photoshop Elements is a desktop version of Photoshop for Windows and Mac. Photoshop for Windows is free software; Adobe Photoshop Elements for Windows is a paid (with an activation code, without which it will not run) desktop application. While both the desktop versions of Photoshop and Adobe Photoshop Elements can be used for light image editing (cropping, resizing, editing the pixels, and retouching), Adobe Photoshop Elements features a much simpler interface, requires less memory and works with fewer files, and can be used for a wide variety of basic photography and design tasks, such as JPEG image editing, photo manipulation, re-sizing, re-skewing, cropping, retouching, making layers from photographs (such as re-skewing the text on a picture), copying objects from one photo to another, etc. The tools in Photoshop Elements, though similar to those in Photoshop, are not as powerful. [Twitchy]Q: How can I manually loop through results of a rawQuery in Android? I have a table that I want to loop through each record in, and update them one at a time. For example, the table could be the following: id1 | data1 | data2 | data3 ----------------------- 1 12 12 12 2 1 2 3 In my DBHelper I have a query called SELECT * FROM [dummy_table] How can I get this query to loop through each row returned, allowing me to update the data1, data2 and data3 fields (to the values of 12, 4, and 9, respectively)? A: You use Cursor cursor = db.rawQuery(sql, array of params, null); In your particular case this will be Cursor cursor = db.rawQuery("SELECT * FROM [dummy_table]", null); EDIT For only one row (no cursor) you can use the select query too as db.select("SELECT * FROM [dummy_table] WHERE id =? LIMIT 1", new String[]{Integer.toString(id)}); > NavigableSet ordering is no longer an Option That section has changed. It now states "This type has no defined ordering" when you attempt to assign a value to it. That sentence has not been a part of the description of NavigableSet since the release

Q: (IOS) How to show different fragment according to the ViewController on Swift Currently i am using a NavController to create a left-right navigation between ViewControllers. I was looking for a different navigation approach. First idea I have been working on is to implement a TabController. My question is how to link the ViewControllers on the TabPages. Below is my expected output for the scenario. For ViewController 1, this is how I have set up for the left-right nav: ViewController2 and ViewController3 are the two activities for this ViewController For ViewController 2, this is how it looks like on the left: As you can see, I want to have a different layout for both the ViewControllers. I was wondering if there is an easier way of doing this. Any help will be appreciated. Thanks A: I have no expirience with the use of TabController in IOS. If you want to know what is better between TabController and Navigation controller, check this answer: Which approach should I use in iOS to display Tabbed content? if(request == null) { if(cfg_has_cfg_value(COSINE_SOURCE_REQUEST_FORMAT_KEY, VENDOR_COSINE_REQUEST_FORMAT_KEY)) { request = COSINE_REQUEST_FORMAT_KEY.equals(VENDOR_COSINE_REQUEST_FORMAT_KEY) ? requestVersion : COSINE_V2_REQUEST_FORMAT_KEY.equals(VENDOR_COSINE_REQUEST_FORMAT_KEY) ? requestVersionV2 : request;
