I want to know how I can automatically flag a friend request as spam? I'm not talking about being spammed, I'm talking about being sent spam. I'm using a.NET app that just sends me emails as a notification. I'm not even sure where to look for this, but I was thinking that it could be possible for me to check the IP of the friend request, have some sort of lookup or whatever to get the IP of the sender, and then flag that request as spam. A: I think you are looking to have your bot act as an alternative to whois or whois.net databases. There are other sites that do this as well, such as ipzoom, web whois, live whois, etc. Most of them are built on the same principle, they read the ip address of the requester, try to locate an entry in their database for the requested IP, if it's available then they replace that IP with the IP of the requester. If you want to take the route of replacing the IP address then you will want to check to see that the IPs you are looking up are the IP's of actual active hosts. Most of the time the IP address that you have looks
