In the SAP BusinessObjects addendum to Statement of Direction (Feb 2021), we plan to stop supporting SAP Crystal Reports 2020 services on Linux and Unix operating systems from version BI 4.3 SP2 on (Q4 2021), to remove dependency of the 3rd party component that simulates Windows API on Linux and Unix. SAP Crystal Reports 2020 reports are still fully supported, by distributing SAP Crystal Reports 2020 (CR 2020) services in SAP BusinessObjects Business Intelligence (BI) platform to a Windows server. More details here: Users of Crystal Reports will find this decision as frustrating as not having a new version of SAP Business One. Users are faced with an upgrade option to SAP Business One 12.0.1 or a service pack to 12.0.2. The Crystal Report Server for SAP BusinessObjects XI (CRXBI) feature enables you to securely distribute Crystal Reports to multiple users. Its ideal for clients who want to create reports without affecting the contents of a database that they are collaborating on. CRXBI can be used for designing reports with enterprise view or detail view, attaching data from SAP BusinessOne on the current report's design, and previewing the reports with charts, data, etc. CRXBI helps reduce the work load of user and administrator significantly because data and design are not bound to any database. This release adds new features that make the report templates work more naturally with newer installations of Crystal Reports. For example, you can now view report expressions in a tree view. You can also set up report query-based report data filters, and use built-in functions instead of the technical functions of a technical database developer.
