i had no idea that alt-rock was a thing! as in not a thing. i guess i could have noticed it in the 2000s when it seemed to be the music of jason mraz , but i never gave it much thought. seeing all these alt-rock shows from younger generation bands makes me curious about all this semi-bland 70s and 80s music.can't wait for the puzzle. i am watching mraz videos and he is in a wide variety of things ranging from videos with interviews to videos live at shows to live performances. he does stand up comedy and is in commercials and more recently videos on the environment and politics. he also does videos on how to be a more mindful parent to his son. i like his videos but it's nice to see them on social media. after releasing his first studio album, waiting for my rocket to come, in 2002, mraz has released seven studio albums. his second studio album, we sing. we dance. we steal things., became mraz's biggest hit to date. he followed that success with two more chart-topping studio albums, 2008's relax and 2012's love is a four letter word. "i wrote i won't give up in 2001, and it's sort of a tribute to my wife, and it's a very personal song to me," says mraz. "it's all about what happened with her, and we got back together, but i still love her with everything in me."mraz says he was trying to work through his feelings on his first album. "i didn't want to talk about it," he says. "i wanted to just sing about it and write in a way that i could sing myself to it, and not have it sound contrived."mraz says it was hard to sing about her name in the song, but he says she deserved the chance to hear it. "i've been playing that song to people for about six years," says mraz. "it takes on a whole new life once she's here. this is the first time it's been completely honest, and i couldn't be happier about that."now fans can watch mraz perform on the 15-song album this saturday (january 22) on lalalalovestream as it premieres on npr.com before being broadcast on npr stations across the country.
